Deceased Estates

Income Tax and Estate Duty

South African Revenue Service

The Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) in this document have been compiled on the basis of questions that executors and the public at large have about the tax treatment of deceased estates.

The FAQs are drafted purely to assist executors and the public at large to obtain clarity and to ensure consistency on certain practical and technical aspects relating to estate duty and the income that may arise after the date of death. The FAQs are therefore not intended to be used as legal reference. More information about some of the aspects discussed in this document are available in the Guide to the Individual Income Tax Return for Deceased and Insolvent Estates – External Guide and the Comprehensive Guide to Capital Gains Tax (Issue 8).

The FAQs are also intended to solicit further questions regarding the practical aspects and tax treatment of deceased estates. The FAQs will therefore be updated periodically to address these questions, as well as any changes to the legislation. In light hereof, it is not envisaged that non-binding private opinions in relation to the amendment will be issued. Any questions that have not been addressed in the FAQs can be emailed to the Estate Duty Mailbox (estateduty@sars.gov.za), for consideration.

All other forms, guides and interpretation notes referred to in these FAQs are available on the SARS website. Unless indicated otherwise, the latest issues of these documents should be consulted.

Question		Answer
General – Estate duty
1.	What is estate duty?	Estate duty is the duty levied under the Estate Duty Act, 1955 (the ED Act) on the dutiable amount of an estate of a deceased person.
2.	What is the estate duty rate?	The duty is levied on the dutiable amount of an estate that does not exceed R30 million at a rate of 20%. Estate duty is levied at a rate of 25% on the dutiable amount of an estate that exceeds R30 million.

4.	What is included in an estate?	The estate of any person shall consist of all the property and deemed property (situated in and outside South Africa) of the deceased person as at the date of death. However, for a deceased person who was not ordinarily resident in South Africa, any property situated outside South Africa will be excluded.
5.	What is the meaning of “property”?	“Property” is defined in section 3(2) of the ED Act to mean any right in or to property, movable or immovable, corporeal or incorporeal. The definition is comprehensive and includes real rights such as the rights attached to fixed or moveable property as well as personal rights (for example, any fiduciary, usufructuary or like interest in property and any right to an annuity (other than a right to an annuity charged on property)). Section 3(2)(bA) of the ED Act specifically includes any contributions made by the deceased person to an approved South African retirement fund that was allowed as a deduction under section 5 of the Second Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1962, in determining the lump sum benefit payable to the deceased person.

		Section 3(3) of the ED Act further includes certain property as deemed property in the estate. The following property is regarded as deemed property: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Domestic policies on the life of the deceased, subject to exclusions. • Exempt donations under section 56(1)(c) or (d) of the Income Tax Act. • An accrual claim on behalf of the deceased person against the surviving spouse under the Matrimonial Property Act, 1984. • Any property that the deceased was before his or her death competent to dispose of for his or her own benefit or for the benefit of his or her estate.
6.	What property is excluded from an estate?	A distinction should be made between a person who is ordinarily resident at the time of death and a person who is not. Ordinarily resident: Section 4(e) of the ED Act provides that property acquired before becoming ordinarily resident in South Africa may under certain circumstances be excluded from the estate. If the deceased is ordinarily resident in South Africa at the date of death, his/her property in South Africa as well as his/her property situated outside South Africa, subject to certain exclusions, is taxable. Not ordinarily resident: Property situated outside South Africa as provided for in section 3(2)(c) – (h) of the ED Act is excluded from the deceased estate in South Africa. If the deceased person was ordinarily resident outside South Africa at the time of death, but had assets in South Africa, the deceased person will have a South African estate for estate duty purposes. Furthermore, section 3(2)(i) of the ED Act excludes any benefit payable to the deceased from an approved retirement fund as a result of death.
7.	Are there any exemptions from estate duty?	No. The ED Act does not provide for any exemptions, but only for the exclusion of certain property from an estate (see Question 6).
8.	What impact can the matrimonial property regime have on the estate duty calculation of the deceased?	The matrimonial property regime under which the deceased person was married will impact the calculation of estate duty. In a marriage out of community of property, each spouse has his or her own estate. Where the accrual system applies to a marriage out of community of property, the spouse with the smallest accrual will have a claim against the other spouse. If the deceased person has the larger estate, a claim will be made against the deceased estate by the surviving spouse [section 4(1A)]. If the deceased person has the smaller estate, the estate have an accrual claim against the surviving spouse and it will be included in the deceased estate as an asset [section 3(3)(cA)].

		In a marriage in community of property, a joint estate exists. When one spouse dies, the entire estate must be administered, but the surviving spouse has a 50% interest in the joint estate and may claim his or her half share. Additional claims may arise under the law of intestate succession. The value of the surviving spouse's estate is calculated after liabilities and administration costs have been deducted from the joint estate. The funeral costs and estate duty are paid from the deceased's half of the estate alone. The latter two deductions are only made after the joint estate had been divided. Although the whole amount of funeral costs is taken into consideration for administration of the joint estate, that amount is added back to establish the one-half share of the joint estate belonging to the surviving spouse and which is not subject to estate duty. The whole amount of funeral costs is then subtracted from the deceased's one-half share of the joint estate.
9.	What deductions are available to reduce the value of an estate?	The following list of expenses are available to qualify as deductions against the gross value of the estate to determine the net value: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Section 4(a): Funeral, tombstone and deathbed expenses. • Section 4(b): Debts owed in South Africa. • Section 4(c): Costs of administration and liquidation. Costs incurred in relation to the management and control of income accruing after the date of death is excluded from this deduction. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Section 4(d): Costs incurred to adhere to the requirements of the Master of the High Court (Master) or the Commissioner for the South African Revenue Service (Commissioner or SARS), for example, cost of valuing property included in the estate, legal costs in relation to disputes with SARS, security costs and fees to professional persons. • Section 4(e): Deductions in respect of foreign assets and rights. • Section 4(f): Deductions in relation to foreign debts. • Section 4(g): Limited interests received as a gift. • Section 4(h): Bequests to certain institutions. • Section 4(i): Improvements made by beneficiaries to property. • Section 4(j): Improvements to properties subject to a limited interest. • Section 4(IA): Accrual claims under the Matrimonial Property Act.

FAQs: Deceased Estates

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Section 4(m): Limited interests created by the predeceased spouse and enjoyed by the deceased. • Section 4(o): Value of books, pictures, statuary other objects of art. • Section 4(p): Deemed property and the valuation of company shares. • Section 4(q): Bequest to the surviving spouse.
10.	How is the dutiable amount of an estate determined?	The net value of the estate is calculated by deducting from the gross value of all property and deemed property the amounts provided for in section 4. Once the net value is determined, an amount of R3,5 million is deducted under section 4A to determine the dutiable amount of the estate. Estate duty is then calculated on the dutiable amount, if any (see Question 3).
11.	What is the impact on the section 4A abatement if the deceased had a predeceased spouse at the time of death?	An abatement of R3,5 million is available in respect of every estate, however, where a deceased person has a predeceased spouse the deceased is entitled to a rebate of R7 million (R3,5 million × 2) less any amount used by the predeceased spouse's estate. The maximum that the latter dying spouse can have is R7 million.
12.	Can a deceased person claim a section 4A(2) abatement in respect of a previously deceased spouse who was not ordinarily resident in South Africa?	Yes. The ED Act does not require the predeceased spouse to be ordinarily resident for the latter dying spouse to make use of any unused portion of the R3,5 million. The only requirement is that there must be a predeceased spouse. The fact that the predeceased spouse ended up having no estate does not disqualify the R3,5 million to be rolled over to the latter dying spouse's estate.
13.	What documentation is required to qualify for the section 4A(2) abatement?	A stamped copy by the Master of the liquidation and distribution account (L&D account) or a stamped copy by the Master of the predeceased's estate duty return (REV267) together with the other estate documentation, is required to qualify for the section 4A(2) abatement. The deduction will not be allowed if the L&D account or REV267 is not submitted or is not stamped by the Master's office. Alternatively, the Commissioner may request any other relevant material that the Commissioner may regard as reasonable in relation to the estate of the predeceased spouse.
14.	Does an estate qualify for the R7 million under section 4A(2) if the predeceased's estate was not reported at the Master?	Yes. The requirements under the ED Act are not dependent on whether the predeceased spouse's estate was reported at the Master. Alternative documentation can be requested to confirm whether or not the R3,5 million was used.

FAQs: Deceased Estates

15.	Who qualifies as a “spouse” for estate duty purposes?	A spouse includes any partner in – <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a marriage or customary union recognised in the Republic; • unions recognised as marriages under tenets of religion; or • a same sex and heterosexual union which the Commissioner is satisfied is intended to be permanent. Under section 13 of the Civil Union Act, 2006 read with the definition of “spouse” in the ED Act, is a civil union partner also included as a spouse.
16.	If the deceased was in a life partnership at the time of death what documentation would be required to satisfy the Commissioner’s discretion that the relationship was intended to be permanent?	Before the Commissioner can consider the life partnership of the deceased to qualify as a “spouse” under section 1 of the ED Act, SARS needs to be provided with three affidavits from different parties to confirm the relationship. The following guidelines may be regarded as proof in support of a life partnership: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An affidavit in which neighbours, relatives or professional people confirm that the deceased and his/her partner had such a relationship. • A cohabitation agreement. • A joint bank account. • The will of the deceased in which the partner is appointed as a beneficiary. • Proof of joint ownership of immovable property or other assets. • Life policies, retirement annuity fund (RAF) or pension fund benefits of which the partner is a beneficiary. • Membership of a medical scheme reflection the partner as a dependant. • The period of such relationship.
Income tax after death
17.	How is the residence of a deceased estate determined?	The residence of a deceased estate in South Africa for income tax purposes follows the residence of the deceased person at the time of death. This determination of residence for income tax purposes is wide and can be by way of physical presence or by being ordinarily resident in South Africa. For estate duty purposes, the concept of residence is narrow and whether or not the deceased person was ordinarily resident in South Africa will determine what property is included for estate duty purposes.
18.	What happens if the deceased person was a resident for income tax purposes, but not ordinarily resident?	For income tax purposes, the worldwide income of the deceased person would be subject to tax in South Africa, however, for estate duty purposes, only the property situated in South Africa is included in the deceased estate.

19.	What types of income is taxable in the deceased estate?	The following types of income is taxable in the deceased estate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All local and foreign income, except for a non-resident deceased estate where only the income amassed in South Africa is subject to tax. • Investment income. • Rental income from immovable property. • Trading income. • Farming income. • Trust income. • Capital gains on assets disposed by an executor. • No IRP5/IT3a type income, for example, lump sums or vesting of share options. • Any income received after the date of death, for example, a bonus, relating to a period before death accrues to the deceased person as at date of death and not to the deceased estate. This income must be declared in the deceased person's last return. • Any income (investment, rental or trade) that have accrued over a period of time that relates to a period before and after the date of death must be split between the deceased person and the deceased estate. The income that accrued up to the date of death must be included in the return of the deceased person and the income that accrued after the date of death, must be included in the income and expenditure account of the L&D account.
20.	What is the impact on the income and expenditure that arise after death if the deceased person was married in community of property?	Where the deceased person was married in community of property and income (investment and rental income) is earned by the deceased estate, 50% of such income must be declared by the deceased estate and the surviving spouse must declare the other 50%. All income, both local and foreign (including investment and rental income) as well as capital gains and foreign credits must be reflected as 50%. For a non-resident estate, only local income is included. Income derived from the carrying on of a trade (except rental income) only forms part of the estate of the person carrying on the trade. The 50/50 split therefore does not apply to trade income. A capital gain up to R1 million in respect of the disposal of a primary residence may be claimed in the deceased estate, the balance must be reflected in the spouse's return.
21.	How often should an income tax return be submitted on behalf of the deceased estate?	An income tax return should be submitted for each year of assessment until such time as the estate becomes distributable. Even when an estate is finalised during the year of assessment, an income tax return must be submitted for the full year of assessment during which the liquidation process was finalised.

22.	If a deceased estate takes more than one year of assessment to be finalised, how should the income and expenditure be allocated?	The income earned and expenditure incurred after the date of death must be allocated to each relevant year of assessment until the deceased estate is finalised.
23.	How is the income and expenditure that arise after death proven?	The L&D account must be submitted in order to prove any of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Income received by the executor. • Assets acquired by the deceased estate from the deceased person. • Assets disposed of by the deceased estate to an heir or legatee. • Assets disposed of by the deceased estate to a resident surviving spouse. The assessment of this income up to the date of the final L&D account as approved by the Master will form part of the expenditure in the income and expenditure account of the deceased estate and is due and payable by the executor. The usual expenses as in the income and expenditure account are allowed to be claimed by the deceased estate.
24.	Who is responsible for the tax liability that arise in respect of the income and expenditure that arise during the advertisement period up to the date the Master approves the L&D account?	The deceased estate is liable for any tax applicable to income earned during the advertisement period up to approval. Any income earned during the advertisement period up to approval must be declared in the deceased estate's final income tax return although not reflected in the income and expenditure account of L&D account.
25.	Who is responsible for the tax liability that arises for the period after the Master approved the L&D account?	Any income earned after approval of the L&D account accrues to the beneficiaries (if any). The executor must inform the beneficiaries to declare such income in their respective tax returns.
26.	What deductions or exemptions apply to the deceased estate?	The following deductions and exemptions are available to the deceased estate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The interest exemption for a taxpayer below 65 years of age applies to the deceased estate even if the deceased person was older than 65. • Any capital gain on the disposal of a primary residence, where the gain does not exceed R2 million, will be disregarded. • No capital gains tax implication on property that is inherited by a surviving spouse. The roll-over will apply.

FAQs: Deceased Estates

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The capital gains tax exclusions on personal use assets. • The deceased estate will be taxed at the same rate and enjoy the same inclusion rate for capital gains tax as is applicable to normal taxpayers. • The exclusion and inclusion rates as per the current tax year of assessment. The following may not be claimed by a deceased estate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Medical and travelling deductions. • Provisional tax. • Any rebates. • Estate duty.
27.	Can accounting fees be claimed as a deduction for the period after death?	Only professional fees that were actually paid or are payable for the completion of the income tax return, can be considered as a deduction. Refer to paragraph 7.2.1 of the Guide to the Individual Income Tax Return for Deceased and Insolvent Estates and Practice Note 35 “Deduction of Fees Paid to Accountants, Bookkeepers and Tax Consultants for the Completion of Income Tax Returns”.
28.	Which expenses are not allowed as a deduction in the deceased estate? 29.	How is an assessed loss treated?	An assessed loss, including a capital gains tax assessed loss, may not be carried over from the deceased person to the deceased estate. The deceased estate will be allowed to carry over any losses incurred in the deceased estate, until the L&D account becomes distributable.

OPERATIONAL ASPECTS
Coding and registration of a deceased estate
30.	Who is responsible for the administrative duties regarding a deceased estate?	The executor as the representative taxpayer of the deceased person is required to act on behalf of the deceased person in wrapping up the estate. The executor is required under the Administration of Estate Act, 1965 to fulfil all duties and obligations in finalising the estate.
31.	What is the process flow to finalise a deceased estate?	There are two processes to follow before a deceased estate can be finalised. The first step is that the estate must be reported to the Master. After the letter of executorship has been issued by the Master, the following should be done: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The executor must, together with the letter of executorship, inform SARS at the SARS office closest to the Master’s office where the case was reported. • Once the deceased person has been coded, all outstanding tax returns should be submitted up to the date of death. This applies to all tax types: income tax, VAT, PAYE, SDL, UIF and estate duty. • As soon as the L&D account, together with the REV267, have been submitted to the Master, a copy thereof must be provided to SARS. • The L&D account will be audited. • If the estate was dutiable, the estate duty audit will be conducted and the REV250 (estate duty assessment) will be issued. • As soon as all the tax liabilities have been paid in full, the Deceased Estate Compliance (DEC) letter and an estate duty clearance letter can be issued. An estate duty clearance letter (ED clearance letter) is issued for estate duty and the DEC letter is issued for all other taxes. Once both letters have been issued, it must be submitted to the Master (see Question 54). • This ED clearance letter and DEC letter need to be submitted to the Master before the executor will be granted the discharge letter to indicate that all the requirements were met and the executor has been released.

32.	How to report a deceased estate to SARS?	If the deceased person was registered with SARS, SARS must be notified of the death of the person, even if no estate duty is payable. If the deceased was not registered for tax purposes, it still needs to be reported to SARS. An executor must notify SARS of the death by – <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • visiting the nearest SARS branch; or • sending an email using one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ For Tax Practitioners: pcc@sars.gov.za ➤ For Taxpayers: contactus@sars.gov.za.
33.	Which documents are required by SARS for the deceased person to be coded as such?	The following documents are required for a deceased person to be coded as such with SARS: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Death certificate or death notice. • Identity document of the deceased person. • Letters of executorship (J238) (if applicable). • Letter of authority (J170) (in cases where the estate is less than R250 000). • Certified copy of the executor’s identity document. • Special power of attorney (if applicable). • Proof of physical address and contact details of the executor or agent. • Last will and testament of the deceased person. • An inventory of the deceased person’s assets. • The L&D account (if available).
34.	How to register a deceased estate? (Also referred to as the second registration.)	This process is applicable only to deaths on or after 1 March 2016 where the deceased estate is required to register as a separate taxpayer with SARS. The assessment of income applies only to the new number that is issued by SARS. If there is no taxable income after date of death, there is no need to register for the second registration. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The deceased person’s income tax number must be registered and coded by SARS as a deceased estate before the second registration can be done. • The deceased estate registration may be done at a SARS branch or via eFiling. • SARS will issue a new number to the deceased estate that will be linked to the existing income tax reference number of the deceased person. • The executor must request for registration of the deceased estate as soon as there is taxable income after date of death.

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> It is not necessary that the deceased person's tax reference number be deactivated at SARS before a deceased estate may be registered. The deceased person's tax reference number must be coded as a deceased estate on the SARS system before a deceased estate can be registered. Where an executor has not registered a deceased estate, a SARS auditor may register the deceased estate while auditing the deceased person where it has been determined that there is relevant or qualifying income after date of death as per the income and expenditure account that requires a deceased estate to be registered.
35.	What documentation is required to register a deceased estate?	The following documentation is required to register a deceased estate with SARS: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Death certificate. Letter of executorship. Certified copy of the executor's ID. Proof of the physical address and contact details of the executor or agent. Power of attorney (if applicable). L&D account.
36.	When should a deceased estate be registered?	SARS should always be notified that a taxpayer has passed away to code such taxpayer as a deceased person. A deceased estate should be registered when income and expenditure arises after the date of death or any capital gains that may arise subsequent to the date of death in the hands of the deceased estate.
Returns and assessments
37.	Is an estate duty return required to be submitted?	Section 7 of the ED Act requires a return to be submitted by an executor. The contents of the estate duty return reflects in principle the content of the L&D account, specifically the estate duty addendum. The estate duty return is submitted together with the L&D account to the Master. A copy of the L&D account and estate duty return can also be submitted to SARS at the Contact Centre where the estate is being administered (see Question 32) or to estateduty@sars.gov.za.
38.	Is estate duty a SARS or self-assessment?	Estate duty is a SARS assessment as section 9(1) of the ED Act provides that the Commissioner to issue an assessment in respect of each estate. Section 9(4)(a) and (b) of the ED Act provides for exceptional cases where an assessment shall be deemed to be a self-assessment.

FAQs: Deceased Estates

39.	How to request an estate duty assessment?	The L&D account and REV267 should be submitted to SARS at either the Contact Centre where the estate is being administered (see Question 32) or to estateduty@sars.gov.za .
40.	May the estate duty assessment be objected against?	Yes. The normal dispute resolution process as provided for under Chapter 9 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011 (TA Act) applies to estate duty assessments.
Payment of estate duty
41.	Who is liable for estate duty?	Estate duty is calculated on the dutiable amount of an estate and the executor in his or her representative capacity is liable for the duty. However, where property accrues to a specific person or where a policy was paid out directly to a beneficiary, such person or the beneficiary is liable for the proportional share of the estate duty payable.
42.	Can a beneficiary be held liable to pay estate duty?	A beneficiary who receives a policy that is directly paid out from an insurance company is liable to pay the estate duty payable on the policy if the deceased estate is a dutiable estate. The same principle applies in respect of a personal right that accrues to a beneficiary as the estate duty payable thereon is payable by the beneficiary.
43.	When is estate duty payable?	The liability to pay estate duty arises upon the death of the deceased and consequently only the position as at the date of death is taken into consideration in the assessment of duty. Estate duty is due within one year from the date of death or 30 days from the date of assessment if assessment is issued within one year from the date of death. Currently, interest is levied at 6% per annum on late payments.
44.	How to pay estate duty?	Estate duty payments can only be made via e-filing. There is no electronic funds transfer (EFT) option available for estate duty. To make a payment on the e-filing system: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) Select 'Additional Payments' and then 'Create Additional Payment'. 2) Under 'Tax Type', select 'Estate Duty (ESD)'. 3) Type taxpayer's (deceased's) name. 4) Under 'Type of Payment', select 'Estate Duty Normal Payment'. 5) Under 'Reference Number', type in the deceased's tax reference number. (Estate Duty Normal Payment: Please be aware that registration for income tax purposes is required in order to make a payment for the selected tax type. The reference number provided with this payment must be the income tax Reference number.) If the deceased was not registered for income tax, the executor will have to apply for an income tax registration in respect of the deceased.

FAQs: Deceased Estates

		6) Enter the amount. 7) Select 'Make Payment'. Please also confirm the payment with the bank. Proof of payment should be emailed to estateduty@sars.gov.za.
45.	Can a deceased estate be a provisional taxpayer?	No. A deceased estate is specifically excluded from the definition of "provisional taxpayer" as defined in paragraph 1 of the Fourth Schedule to the Income Tax Act. A deceased estate cannot settle a tax liability by way of provisional tax.
46.	Under what circumstances will an extension for payment of estate duty be granted?	An extension will be considered if the executor applied in writing for an extension within the prescribed period of time and paid a reasonable deposit (see Question 59).
47.	Can deferred arrangements be entered into for estate duty purposes?	Yes. A deferred arrangement may be entered into, provided the requirements under section 168 of the TA Act are met.
48.	Can an application for a compromise be made in respect of estate duty?	Yes. An application for a compromise of a portion of tax debt will be considered provided the requirements of section 201 of the TA Act are met. The approval will depend on whether it results in the highest return from the recovery of the tax debt and it must be consistent with considerations of good management of the tax system and administrative efficiency.
49.	Can estate duty be written off?	Yes. SARS may authorise a write off of an estate duty liability, whether temporarily or permanently, provided the relevant legislative requirements are met. SARS may decide under section 195 of the TA Act to temporarily write off an amount of a tax debt when satisfied that it is uneconomical to pursue the collection of such debt at that time. SARS may also authorise a permanent write off of an amount of a tax debt under section 198 of the TA Act if the tax debt becomes irrecoverable after the available legislative provisions have been exhausted.
Refunds
50.	Which form should be completed to submit a refund of estate duty?	The executor must submit the completed Part A of the REV16 to estateduty@sars.gov.za .
51.	Which documentation should be submitted when requesting a refund?	The following documents should be submitted when requesting a refund: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Letter of executorship. • A power of attorney letter in the case of a representative or tax practitioner. • Contact details of the executor (to request vouchers etc).

Estate duty clearance letter or deceased estate compliance letter
54.	What is an estate duty clearance letter (ED clearance letter)?	An ED clearance letter is a letter issued by the Commissioner under section 17 of the ED Act in respect of estate duty. The letter provides confirmation that all estate duty liabilities are secured or paid.
55.	What is a deceased estate compliance (DEC) letter?	A DEC letter is a letter issued by the Commissioner in respect of all other taxes (other than estate duty).
56.	When can an ED clearance letter or DEC letter be expected?	An ED clearance letter or DEC letter will be issued once all duty or taxes are paid or secured to the satisfaction of the Commissioner.
57.	How to apply for an ED clearance letter or DEC letter?	An executor can request an ED clearance letter for estate duty through the Estate Duty Mailbox (estateduty@sars.gov.za). The DEC letter in relation to all other taxes must be requested from the Inbound Centres (see Question 32). Please note that the DEC letter will only be issued if ALL taxes are paid in full. If the estate is liable for estate duty and the income tax has been paid in full but the estate duty is not paid, no ED clearance letter will be issued.

58.	When may an executor distribute an estate?	An executor is only allowed to deliver or transfer property to an heir or legatee once the executor satisfied the Commissioner that due provision has been made for the payment of any estate duty payable.
Interest
59.	When is interest payable on estate duty?	Interest is payable after one year from the date of death or after 30 days if SARS issued an assessment and the estate duty remained unpaid. Interest will be levied at 6% per annum.
60.	May an interest-free extension to pay estate duty be requested?	Yes. The Commissioner may grant an extension under section 10(2) of the ED Act for late payments of estate duty without interest. If a SARS official is satisfied that the delay in the payment of the duty is not occasioned by the executor or person responsible for payment, the SARS official may allow an interest-free extension for the payment for any part or the whole outstanding amount.
61.	Where should the request for an interest-free extension to pay estate duty be sent?	All requests should be emailed to estateduty@sars.gov.za .
62.	What conditions should be met to request an interest-free extension to pay estate duty? FAQs: Deceased Estates

64.	Under what circumstances may an interest-free extension to pay estate duty be granted?	An extension may be granted for the interest-free payment of estate duty in the following circumstances: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If the estate is experiencing a cash shortfall (proof such as bank statements must be provided). • If there are assets overseas and there is no liquidity to make a payment. • Exceptional circumstances beyond the control of the executor and proof that reasonable steps were taken to make the payment in time. • The merits of each case must be considered in relation to the nature of the request and the history of the estate to ensure a clean track record exists relating to previous payments, returns and requests for information. Note: if there is cash available in the estate (based on the recapitulation account) and there is no circumstance outside of the executor's control to make the payment, the full payment may be requested.
65.	Can SARS reject a request for an interest-free extension to pay estate duty?	Yes. The request for extension can be declined if the requirements to apply for an interest-free extension have not been adhered to. The executor is entitled to the reasons for arriving at a decision.
66.	Can a taxpayer lodge an objection or appeal against a decision from SARS not to extend payment for estate duty?	No. Neither the ED Act nor the TA Act provides for the objection against the decision to not grant an extension.
67.	If no extension was granted and interest was payable, can SARS remit interest levied on estate duty?	No. Interest on estate duty is levied under section 10(1) of the ED Act. Section 10(2) of the ED Act does not provide for the remission of interest but merely allows the Commissioner to extend the period in which estate duty is payable, to be interest-free (a delayed commencement date for the imposition of interest). Therefore, no requests for the remission of interest are permissible under section 10(2). Section 187(6) of the TA Act cannot be relied on to remit interest levied under the ED Act, as interest can only be remitted under section 187(6) of the TA Act if the interest was levied under section 187(1) of the TA Act.
